Commie Bid In Italian Poll Miserable Flop

Christian Democrats Amass 2-1 Advantage In Critical Ballot

ROME, April 20—A Communist lead was reflected in virtually all parts of the country.

THE COMPLETE tabulation of senatorial votes in the great industrial city of Milan, long a bulwark of Communist strength, was as follows:

Christian Democrats and allies: 511,229.

Popular Front: 276,281.

Only persons over 25 years of age were eligible to vote for senators.

In the election of the chamber of deputies, for which all persons over 21 could vote, the ratio appeared to be almost identical.

The Communists were unable to make any inroads on the winning margins already established by the Christian Democrats and other anti-Communist groups in balloting for senate seats as first returns on the chamber of deputies were received.

A comprehensive 11 million senate votes showed that the Christian Democrats have amassed a two million vote advantage over the Communist-led Popular Front.

The stock market reacted immediately to the victory with stocks rising an average of 15 per cent.

The Left-Wing Socialist newspaper Avanti was forced to acknowledge that "the people's

Pope Is Elated By Result Of Italian Ballot

VATICAN CITY, April 20—Pope Pius XII was elated today over the defeat handed to the Communists in Italy's national elections.

A small group of Americans privileged to see the pontiff in a private audience noted his supreme gratification that Democratic forces had won victory.

The pope made an important statement, expressing his views on the significance of the election results. It will be made public within the next 48 hours.

When it is made public, the statement will be intended for the American people as a whole.

The small group was received by arrangement of Myron C. Taylor, special envoy of President Truman. Taylor personally introduced 17 of the Americans in the party.

The usually worried face of the pope was relieved and beaming with smiles.

The spiritual leader of Catholicism, who exerted great moral influence in the election campaign, looked as though he felt the faithful had not been wanting on Sunday and Monday.

Economic talks concerning United States aid to Latin America appear to have ended for the present, with the departure from Bogota yesterday of Commerce Secretary W. Averell Harriman.

Observers feel that detailed plan for U. S. economic aid will be postponed until a forthcoming Buenos Aires meeting of the American republics.

Kiernan's ONE MAN'S OPINION

It is admitted that money appropriated to aid Turkey was diverted into the Turkeyless Thursday campaign. A word to the Greeks is sufficient.

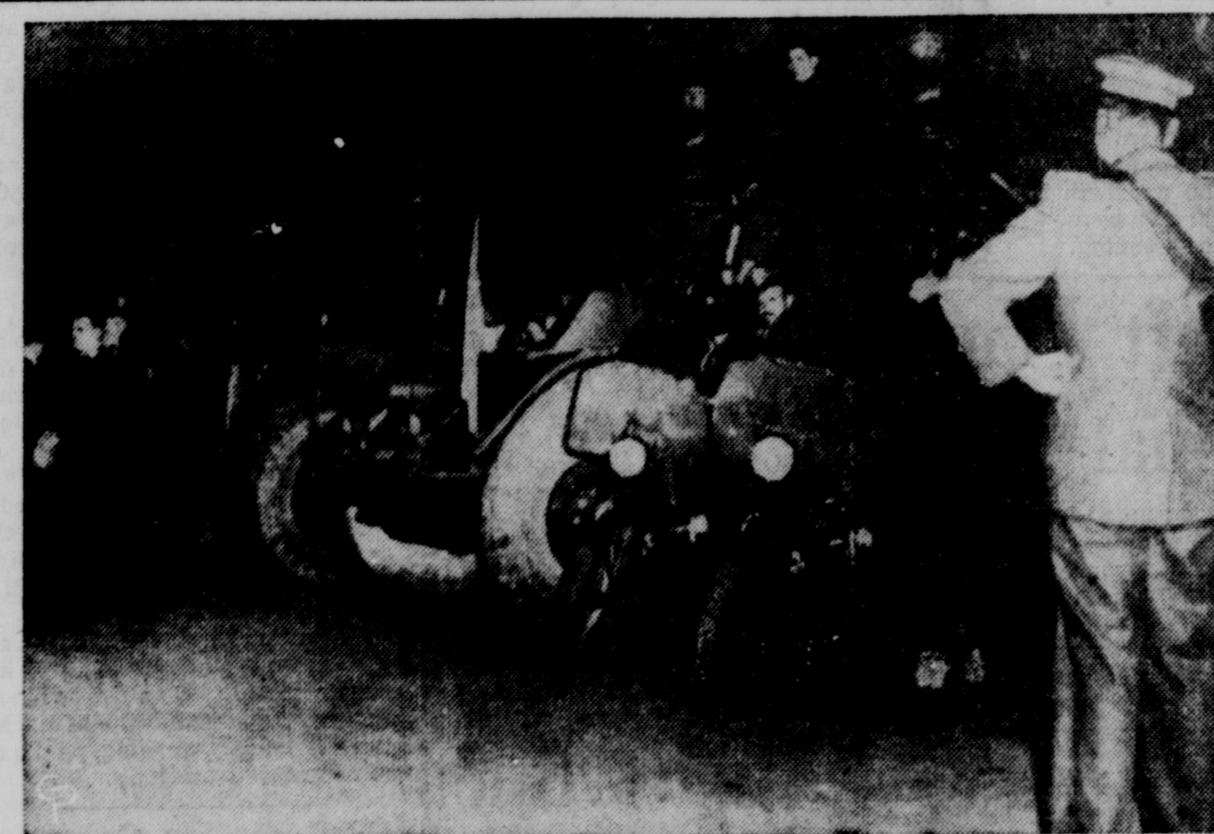

If they haven't got their full quota of funds the money for Greece probably went into fat salvage.

Anyhow we now hold more gold than any other nation and have less use for it than most.

The objective is to get it all—at which time the other nations of the world will meet and decide that from thence forward they will value gold on a par with radishes.

That will be the year we'll be short of radishes.

WASHINGTON, April 20—A money dispute among the heads of the armed services blocked Senate committee action today on preparedness legislation requested by President Truman.

The House armed services committee is unaffected by the dispute, however, and is continuing hearings on draft legislation. Socialist Party Leader Norman Thomas is scheduled as an opposition witness.

The Senate armed services committee recessed its study of the draft. Universal Military Training and the question of air power expansion until it receives a report on military costs for the 1949 fiscal year from Defense Secretary Forrestal.

Sen. Gurney, (R) S. D., chairman of the Senate unit, said the report has been delayed because the Army, Navy and Air Force have been unable to agree on money needs. He said that each of the three services wants more money for the year beginning May 1.

Inter-American Parley Recesses

BOGOTA, April 20—The Inter-American conference recesses today in tribute to Jorge Eliécer Gaitán, the Colombian liberal leader whose assassination touched off the bloody revolt in 1948.

Gaitán was buried this morning at his suburban home which eventually will become a national shrine. Liberal leaders arranged a giant procession to pass through Bogota along the very streets where the rioting took place.

Economic talks concerning United States aid to Latin America appear to have ended for the present, with the departure from Bogota yesterday of Commerce Secretary W. Averell Harriman.

Observers feel that detailed plan for U. S. economic aid will be postponed until a forthcoming Buenos Aires meeting of the American republics.

Normal River Life Resumes

CINCINNATI, April 20—Cincinnati warehousemen prepared to move back into their flooded store houses late tomorrow or Friday as the swollen Ohio river dropped to 62.9 feet this morning.

The muddy waters are expected to be back in their banks early Friday.

Across the river at Newport, Ky., sandbagging operations ceased and most of the soldiers were sent back to their camps, leaving only a few to patrol the 10-foot dike they helped erect.

Upstream at Portsmouth, the river stood at 57 and a half feet, four feet six inches below the level protected by the city's $4 million floodwall.

Merchants already were moving back into their shops and home-owners were repairing the ravages of the flood as best they could at Pomeroy where the river dropped back within its banks yesterday.

That will be the year we'll be short of radishes.

Taft Plans Final Drive

Stassen Also Due Back In Ohio

COLUMBUS, April 20—Ohio's own Sen. Robert A. Taft and former Minnesota Gov. Harold E. Stassen reenter Ohio tomorrow in their battle for 23 of the Buckeye State's 53 Republican presidential convention delegates.

Taft will pull an iron-man stunt by campaigning in 11 different cities tomorrow and Thursday, concentrating in the northeastern and eastern industrial sections.

Stassen will appear tomorrow in Southwestern Ohio and then campaign up through Northern and Northeastern Ohio, winding up his tour in Cleveland Saturday.

All of their appearances are in the 11 congressional districts where the 41-year-old Stassen is bucking the state GOP organization in his quest for delegates. He also has entered one lone candidate for one of the nine posts as delegate-at-large.

THE OTHER 30 delegates will go to Taft uncontested.

PHILADELPHIA, April 20—GOP convention chiefs fell back on a gubernatorial precedent today in picking Gov. Dwight H. Green of Illinois as their "harmony" choice for keynote speaker at the June presidential convention.

Lieutenants of the major presidential candidates, anxious to avoid an extended wrangle, agreed upon Green as keynoter and House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts as convention permanent chairman.

Their compromise choice was approved unanimously by the 32-member convention arrangements committee.

Vandals Rig Up Oil Squirters

Vandals tinkering with door stoppers at the entrance to Pythian Castle have devised a new way of giving visitors there a new type oil shampoo.

Tubes from the stoppers had been removed, allowing a little squirt of oil to be sprayed on persons entering the building.

Police Chief William F. McCrady said the report has stirred his ire. "Anyone caught perpetrating such childish acts should be prosecuted," the chief declared.

1948 Land Boom
Already Equal
With '20 Peak

WASHINGTON, April 20—The Agriculture department said today that the current land boom has reached the level of the 1920 peak and actually has surpassed it in 32 states.

The department reported that land values went up seven percent in the year ended last March 1 and now stands at 105 percent of the 1935-39 average.

This compares with a 15 percent rise in the previous 12 months. It was the smallest yearly increase since 1942.

The latest dollar-and-cents estimate for average land values across the nation was $40.63 an acre in 1945. Applying the index percentage increases since that time the average value today would be $54.81 an acre.

THE ESTIMATES were revealed as the committee prepared to open bearings behind closed doors to determine how much actually shall be appropriated for the program. First witnesses called were Paul Hoffman, head of the new Economic Coopera-

The weather bureau's five-day outlook for Ohio follows:

"Temperatures will average four to six degrees above normal during the period. Cool Wednesday, becoming warmer later Thursday and Friday. Cooler about Sunday. Showers tonight and again about Friday, with total rainfall near one-half inch."

Jewish Aircraft Bomb Town In Arab Territory

JERUSALEM, April 20—Arab informants said today that Jewish planes have bombed the village of Shamaliya in Central Palestine.

Shamaliya is northeast of Nablus, one of the towns where the "Arab liberation army" is reported concentrated.

Arab sources also said that their guerrilla chieftain, Fawzi El-Kawukji, has arrived in Amman, for talks with King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan.

Abdullah, whose Arab legion is the best-equipped army in the Middle East, recently indicated he might cast his lot with the Arabs who are determined to fight the Jews in Palestine.

Previous indications were that the Trans-Jordan leader would remain neutral.

Arab sources said that street demonstrators in Amman called for more aid to Arab forces now within the Holy Land.

Meanwhile, a report from Baghdad said that Iraqi General Ismail Sawfat Pashal arrived in Baghdad from Amman to report on the Palestine situation. It was understood that the Iraq cabinet decided on sending "more practical aid" to Palestine's Arabs.

Commie Bid In Italian Poll Miserable Flop

Christian Democrats Amass 2-1 Advantage In Critical Ballot

ROME, April 20—A Communist bid to seize power in Italy through the ballot box failed completely today when late returns gave the Christian Democrats and their allies a decisive two-to-one advantage.

Of the 18 million votes cast throughout the country for a new senate, the Christian Democrats won 8 million, 200 thousand.

Jail Term For Lewis Possible

pleted by the original month-long shutdown.

The judge followed the recommendations of the Justice department, which asked that Lewis and the union be fined twice the penalties assessed against them in the 1946 coal strike contempt case.

As the sentence was handed down a new wave of paralyzing walkouts took shape in the nation's coal fields. Thousands of angry miners left their jobs in sullen protest against the conviction of their leader and their union.

The government asked that Goldsborough defer until Friday the sentence for civil contempt, and the judge took the request under advisement.

Wally K. Hopkins, chief defense counsel, gave formal notice that the case will be appealed to higher courts.

The supreme court upheld the contempt finding in 1946 but reduced the fine against the union in that case from $3,500,000 to $700,000.

Lewis was invited to make a statement in his own behalf, but refused. The burly, 68-year-old UMW president stared grimly, without trace of emotion, as the sentence was pronounced.

GOLDSBOROUGH in accepting the government's recommendation, said:

"The court feels that it should adopt the recommendations made by the government unless they are of such character as to shock the conscience of the court."

Goldsborough pointed out that the coal strike "involved the welfare and health and safety and orderly way of life of 143 million people as well as the national prestige among foreign countries which must be sustained in view of the present international situation."

He emphasized:

"If this court was to use its individual judgment it would impose a prison sentence on the individual defendant."

The judge asked what arrangements the defendant would suggest for complying with the sentence. Hopkins replied:

"The defendants are prepared to make bond in the amount of one million 400 thousand dollars and 20,000 respectively."

He said this could be done "probably this afternoon or tomorrow morning."

In recommending that the former fines be doubled, Morison told the court:

"IT IS THE government's view that double the amount of penalty imposed in the previous case is both necessary and appropriate."

Morison declared that Lewis and the union had "failed to take any action to comply with a court order requiring an immediate end to the 1946 coal mine strike."

He asserted the defendants took this position "although it is apparent that it was readily within their power" to end the walkout as directed by the federal court. The assistant attorney general added:

"Without going into the merits of the 1946 case it should be remembered that these defendants in 1946 committed a contempt of court under substantially similar circumstances."

Morison charged that Lewis and the union "chose to set themselves above the procedures of law, and to disregard entirely a law of the United States."

Gurney said that Forrestal now "has advised us he is not ready to bring up a unified (funds) request and that he will not have it before tomorrow and he isn't sure he will be able to bring it up even then."

The delay on the funds report had a chain reaction.

SEN. BRIDGES, (R) N. H., chairman of the Senate appropriations committee, said he wanted to have the recommendations of the armed services committee before his group began consideration of the House-passed bill to appropriate more than $3 billion for air expansion and to start a 70-group air program.

Bridges said he would wait a "reasonable length of time" and if the dispute among military leaders still blocked action by the armed services committee, his group would go ahead on its own.

The New Hampshire senator strongly endorsed a 70-group air program, which President Truman has opposed. His endorsement assures the House-approved air expansion bill of easily passing its next vote in the Senate appropriations committee.

Man Is Found In Hargus Creek

Circleville police Tuesday were attempting to clarify circumstances surrounding a former local man who was found about noon in Hargus creek near the Pickaway street bridge in a dazed condition.

Officer John McGinnis, who was called to the scene by school children who found the man, identified him as Howard North, 36, of Phoenix, Ariz., who lived here until about 15 years ago.

McGinnis and Chief of Police William McCrady said North was taken immediately to Berger hospital. Although no injuries were apparent and hospital attaches found no sign of intoxication or drugs, North spoke only incoherently and was unable to tell police how he happened to fall into the stream.

Reds Lose Italian Poll

The "inability of the Italian people" was credited by Premier Alcide De Gasperi for defeating the Communists.

De Gasperi said the result reflects the fact that the people appreciated that what they were told by the Christian Democrats and their allies was in their interest.

Some post-election disturbances were reported as the tallying continued but they were of a minor nature.

At Bologna, Communists hurled a bomb against a store owned by a Christian Democrat. No one was hurt.

In the nearby town of Zecca, two Communists were arrested on charges of attempted sabotage of telephone communications.

PALMIRO Togliatti's position as Communist leader was reported becoming untenable, and the Christian Democrat victory was also said to have caused a crisis within Pietro Nenni's Left-Wing Socialist party.

Italy's man-on-the-street was elated over the victory in the battle against Communism.

Typical of the comment was that the victory "permits us to breathe freely and speak freely again."

The balloting is viewed in the Italian peninsula also as a victory for the Marshall Plan.

$1,000 Slander Suit Filed By Lumber Buyer

A $1,000 slander suit has been filed in Pickaway County common pleas court by Richard Todhunter of Tarlton to justify alleged damages at the hands of Russell D. Miller of Circleville Route 4.

Todhunter's petition claims Miller was the cause of Todhunter suffering the loss of two contracts in which he agreed to purchase lumber and 40 acres of land in Hocking County.

In his action for damage claim, Todhunter's allegation states he contracted to purchase 5,000 board feet of lumber from Hubert Thompson last December which would be paid for on delivery.

The petition continues that last November, Todhunter further contracted to buy 40 acres of land from Goldie Hilliard for $900 in Hocking County.

DURING THE transaction, Todhunter's petition claims, Miller told Thompson that the plaintiff owed a $300 grocery bill to Russell Jones of Tarlton and that Jones was forced to confiscate Todhunter's corn crop to even the bill.

In turn, the petition goes on, Thompson then told Goldie Hilliard to drop her contract or "she would get beat."

The loss of both contracts, Todhunter believes, caused him $1,000 damage.

Plans All Set For Angus Field Day Program

Final plans for the type demonstration and Angus Field Day to be held June 12 on the Dean Godden farm, south of Williamsport, were discussed this week at a meeting of the Pickaway County Angus Breeders Association in Bettz restaurant.

Dick Hoffines, president of the county group, said he had obtained J. B. McCorkle, secretary of the Ohio Angus Breeders Association to conduct the demonstration.

Judging contests have been arranged for adults, Future Farmers of America and 4-H Club members. Trophies will be awarded to winners of the judging contests.

With emphasis to be placed on the type of beef cattle to breed and feed for the greatest profit, several specialists from the Ohio State University and Ohio experiment station will appear on the program.

The program is scheduled to begin at 2 p. m. with a barbecue in the evening.

Taft Plans Final Drive

— the primary election is May 4 — both men are pouring on the coal in their finishing drives to win prestige in Ohio.

Stassen wants to win a dozen or more delegates in Taft's own state. Taft wants to keep him from winning more than four or five.

If Stassen should win 10 or more — and all of his candidates are entered in industrial areas where the Taft-Hartley law is unpopular — the blow would be terrifically damaging to Taft's national hopes at the Philadelphia convention in July.

By the end of the week, Stassen will have appeared in eight of the 11 districts.

Taft will return to Ohio again next Tuesday to spend the remainder of the week campaigning, winding up in his own hometown — Cincinnati — the day before the election.

pleted by the original month-long shutdown.

The judge followed the recommendations of the Justice department, which asked that Lewis and the union be fined twice the penalties assessed against them in the 1946 coal strike contempt case.

As the sentence was handed down a new wave of paralyzing walkouts took shape in the nation's coal fields. Thousands of angry miners left their jobs in sullen protest against the conviction of their leader and their union.

The government asked that Goldsborough defer until Friday the sentence for civil contempt, and the judge took the request under advisement.

Welly K. Hopkins, chief defense counsel, gave formal notice that the case will be appealed to higher courts.

The supreme court upheld the contempt finding in 1946 and reduced the fine against the union in that case from $3,500,000 to $700,000.

Lewis was invited to make a statement in his own behalf, but refused. The burly, 68-year-old UMW president stared grimly, without trace of emotion, as the sentence was pronounced.

In accepting the government's recommendation, said:

"The court feels that it should adopt the recommendations made by the government unless they are of such character as to shock the conscience of the court."

Goldsborough pointed out that the coal strike "involved the welfare and health and safety and orderly way of life of 143 million people as well as the national prestige among foreign countries which must be sustained in view of the present international situation."

He emphasized:

"If this court was to use its individual judgment it would impose a prison sentence on the individual defendant."

The judge asked what arrangements the defendant would suggest for complying with the sentence. Hopkins replied:

"The defendants are prepared to make bond in the amount of one million 400 thousand dollars and 20,000 respectively."

He said this could be done "probably this afternoon or tomorrow morning."

In recommending that the former fines be doubled, Morison told the court:

"IT IS THE government's view that double the amount of penalty imposed in the previous case is both necessary and appropriate."

Morison declared that Lewis and the union had "failed to take any action to comply with a court order requiring an immediate end to the 1946 coal mine strike."

He asserted the defendants took this position "although it is apparent that it was readily within their power" to end the walkout as directed by the federal court. The assistant attorney general added:

"Without going into the merits of the 1946 case it should be remembered that these defendants in 1946 committed a contempt of court under substantially similar circumstances."

Morison charged that Lewis and the union "chose to set themselves above the procedures of law, and to disregard entirely a law of the United States."

BULGE BLUNDER RECALLEDBogota Boner Revealing Weak Diplomatic Chain

WASHINGTON, April 20—Bit by bit, the facts behind that bloody business at Bogota are coming to light—and making it look more and more like a diplomatic version of the military blunder in the Battle of the Bulge.

In both cases, the trouble obviously hinged on intelligence. Army G-2 in the Belgian breakthrough and the newly-formed Central Intelligence Agency in the Colombian uprising.

Because of that obvious, first-glimpse deduction, the tendency in both cases was to blame those two intelligence-gathering outfits—until it became obvious that neither was particularly at fault.

Eventually, it became clear that the trouble lay in, (1) the transmission of that intelligence, (2) the relaying of it to responsible leaders and (3) correct interpretation and prompt action, once such information reached the highest echelons.

THOSE WHO remember Von Runstedt's murderous breakthrough that cold night in December will recall the mounting rage from all sides at what seemed at first to be horribly inadequate G-2 reports on German strength.

It was many months before even the basic facts in the case came to light, and part of the story is not yet fully clear today. But certainly the G-2 officers and men of the units locked in combat have been cleared. Because the Army had the necessary information.

Thus it was at Bogota. Despite its youth as an organization, the Central Intelligence Agency now has been fully vindicated.

Its operatives on the spot provided accurate information on the planned Communist coup and Western Hemisphere prestige around the world. Coming on the eve of the Italian elections, it would have been a deadly stroke, had it worked.

The fact that it did not work, and that the parley continued, was due (again paralleling the Bulge) to the improvisations of the men on the spot—not to any previously prepared plan.

Here again, transmission of that information, gathered at the risk of countless men's lives, was forced to go through ancient and slow-moving channels, subject to the whims of many a petty career diplomat along the line.

APPARENTLY no one from the CIA had been placed high enough to get a respectful audience from American diplomats—from Secretary of State Marshall on down. Hence, there was no full evaluation of the intelligence, and no prompt action taken as a result.

After the Bulge blunder, military intelligence transmission and evaluation methods got a fast revision to prevent a repetition. The war ended before the results of that revision could become clear.

But this diplomatic and international intelligence war is just getting started.

Freak Railroad Mishap Kills Man

COLUMBUS, April 20—Firemen said today they could have saved the life of Brakeman Ben C. Smith last night, except for the peculiar way he fell between the wheels of a New York Central freight car at the Columbus Forge and Iron Co.

Smith was crushed to death when he fell in such a manner that the car could not be pushed or pulled away without running over his body. He was pinned for 15 minutes before police and firemen could jack up the car. The brakeman fell when the car in which he was riding jolted into another car being attached to the train.

Chillicothe Bus Drivers Walk Out

CHILLICOTHE, April 20—Bus transportation in this city of 21,000 was halted today by a strike of nine city bus line drivers.

The AFL drivers, operating four buses of Public Transport, Inc., are seeking a 48-hour week and $1 an hour. At present they are working 58 to 60 hours, and are paid 78 cents an hour for 40 hours and time and a half for overtime.

The company asked city council to authorize a fare increase from five to seven cents.

Law Of Averages Finally Catches College Lads On Roulette Wheel

LAS VEGAS, Nev., April 20—That old law of averages had caught up again today with two 23-year-old youths trying to beat a Las Vegas roulette wheel with a mathematical "system" worked out in college.

The lads, Albert Hibbs of Chillicothe, O., and Roy Walford, San Diego, Cal., still held the upper hand, however, with total winnings of about $320 following some 71 hours of betting.

After 18 hours of constant play on numbers "one" and "zero," their system faltered a second time Monday, and the pair quit while still $60 to the good.

Earlier, the two former University of Chicago students put in 53 hours in six-hour shifts around the clock wagering steadily on number "nine."

But they ceased playing late Saturday after some $100 in winnings had dwindled to $260 during a losing streak.

SPECTATORS at the Golden Nugget gambling hall stood four and five deep around the roulette table while Hibbs and Walford made their "systematized" assault against the odds. The youths, visibly tired and

By DEAN HALLIDAY

AS SOON as Freedom garden seedlings show their heads above the soil surface the hat should be uncovered and placed where it will receive full light. Leggy seedlings are caused by overcrowding and lack of light.

The hats containing Freedom garden seedlings should be weeded regularly, otherwise the rapid growth of weeds will deprive the seedling plants of food and moisture. Weeding also helps to aerate the soil. Weeds will be easy to detect if the Freedom seeds were properly planted in rows and the rows in turn marked with label sticks.

Ohio Pen Officials Relax; Bloody Quarter Hour Leaves Guard Dead

COLUMBUS, April 20—Tense Ohio state penitentiary guards relaxed today after a bloody quarter-hour last night when a prisoner ran amuck, stabbing one guard to death and seriously wounding two others.

The acting warden said Thomas then charged into the yard where he stabbed Lower as the yardman ran to help Zimmer. Thomas ran back into the dining room.

Alvis said:

"We caught him with searchlights from the tower, huddling behind a coffee urn. He offered no resistance when armed guards entered the room and ordered him to surrender."

Alvis said the slain guard was Walter W. Zimmer of near Westerville. The injured were Samuel P. Chesshir and Frank C. Lower, both of Columbus.

Alvis reported that Thomas "ran from the hospital to the kitchen where he grabbed a butcher knife."

"AFTER HE got the knife, he ran through the kitchen and stabbed Chesshir, apparently will not grow into healthy plants. Such seedlings are also more susceptible to the disease known as 'damping off.' Thinning should begin early. At first only every other plant will need to be removed. Do not cut off plants which are being 'thinned out,' but pull them out, roots and all.

When thinning if plants are merely pinched off, or cut off at the surface of the soil, the roots may rot and foster the development of disease in the flat.

When the true leaves make their appearance on seedlings, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, it is time for the first transplanting of the plants.

Here again, transmission of that information, gathered at the risk of countless men's lives, was forced to go through ancient and slow-moving channels, subject to the whims of many a petty career diplomat along the line.

APPARENTLY no one from the CIA had been placed high enough to get a respectful audience from American diplomats—from Secretary of State Marshall on down. Hence, there was no full evaluation of the intelligence, and no prompt action taken as a result.

After the Bulge blunder, military intelligence transmission and evaluation methods got a fast revision to prevent a repetition. The war ended before the results of that revision could become clear.

But this diplomatic and international intelligence war is just getting started.

Freak Railroad Mishap Kills Man

COLUMBUS, April 20—Firemen said today they could have saved the life of Brakeman Ben C. Smith last night, except for the peculiar way he fell between the wheels of a New York Central freight car at the Columbus Forge and Iron Co.

Smith was crushed to death when he fell in such a manner that the car could not be pushed or pulled away without running over his body. He was pinned for 15 minutes before police and firemen could jacked up the car.

The brakeman fell when the car in which he was riding jolted into another car being attached to the train.

Chillicothe Bus Drivers Walk Out

CHILLICOTHE, April 20—Bus transportation in this city of 21,000 was halted today by a strike of nine city bus line drivers.

The AFL drivers, operating four buses of Public Transport, Inc., are seeking a 48-hour week and $1 an hour. At present they are working 58 to 60 hours, and are paid 78 cents an hour for 40 hours and time and a half for overtime.

The company asked city council to authorize a fare increase from five to seven cents.

Law Of Averages Finally Catches College Lads On Roulette Wheel

LAS VEGAS, Nev., April 20—That old law of averages had caught up again today with two 23-year-old youths trying to beat a Las Vegas roulette wheel with a mathematical "system" worked out in college.

The lads, Albert Hibbs of Chillicothe, O., and Roy Walford, San Diego, Cal., still held the upper hand, however, with total winnings of about $320 following some 71 hours of betting.

After 18 hours of constant play on numbers "one" and "zero," their system faltered a second time Monday, and the pair quit while still $60 to the good.

Earlier, the two former University of Chicago students put in 53 hours in six-hour shifts around the clock waging steadily on number "nine."

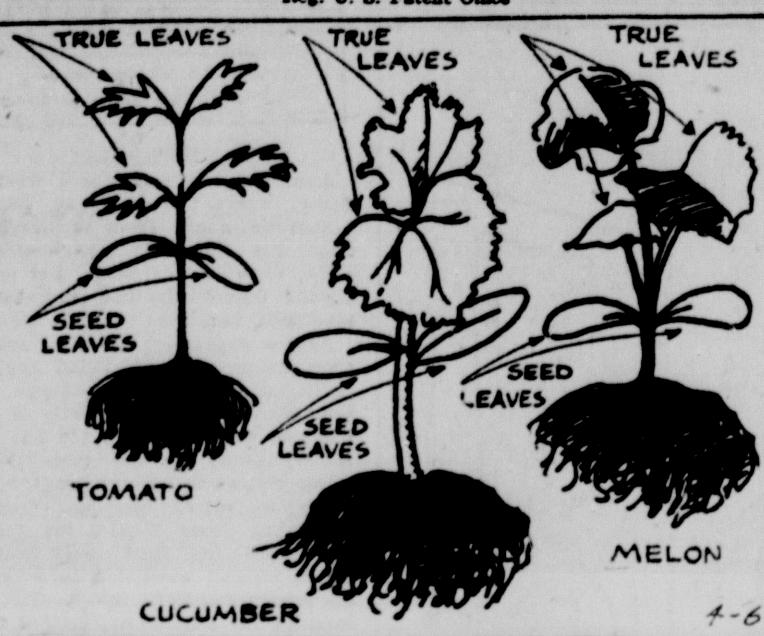

But they ceased playing late Saturday after some $1,100 in winnings had dwindled to $260 during a losing streak.

SPECTATORS at the Golden Nugget gambling hall stood four and five deep around the roulette table while Hibbs and Walford made their "systematized" assault against the odds.

Know Your Garden Seedlings

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Distributed by Central Press Association

AS SOON as Freedom garden seedlings show their heads above the soil surface the flat should be uncovered and placed where it will receive full light. Leggy seedlings are caused by over-crowding and lack of light.

The data containing Freedom garden seedlings should be weeded regularly, otherwise the rapid growth of weeds will deprive the seedling plants of food and moisture. Weeding also helps to aerate the soil. Weeds will be easy to detect if the Freedom seeds were properly planted in rows and the rows in turn marked with label sticks.

Cramped, crowded seedlings will not grow into healthy plants. Such seedlings are also more susceptible to the disease known as "damping off." Thinning should begin early. At first only every other plant will need to be removed. Do not cut off plants which are being "thinned out." When thinning if plants are merely pinched off, or cut off at the surface of the soil, the roots may rot and foster the development of disease in the flat.

When the true leaves make their appearance on seedlings, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, it is time for the first transplanting of the plants.

Ohio Pen Officials Relax; Bloody Quarter Hour Leaves Guard Dead

COLUMBUS, April 20—Tense Ohio state penitentiary guards relaxed today after a bloody quarter-hour last night when a prisoner ran amuck, stabbing one guard to death and seriously wounding two others.

Acting Warden Ralph W. Alvis identified the prisoner as John Thomas, 34, from Montgomery County, a "problem case" who escaped from the "strong ward" of the prison hospital when a guard freed him to empty bed pan.

Alvis said the slain guard was Walter W. Zimmer of near Westerville. The injured were Samuel P. Chesshir and Frank C. Lower, both of Columbus.

Alvis reported that Thomas ran from the hospital to the kitchen where he grabbed a butcher knife.

"AFTER HE got the knife, he ran through the kitchen and stabbed Chesshir, apparently wrong," Alvis said. "He then ran into the power house, where he mortally stabbed Zimmer, also apparently without warning."

The acting warden said Thomas then charged into the yard where he stabbed Lower as the yardman ran to help Zimmer. Thomas ran back into the dining room.

Alvis said: "We caught him with searchlights from the tower, huddling behind a coffee urn. He offered no resistance when armed guards entered the room and ordered him to surrender."

Alvis said the slain guard was Walter W. Zimmer of near Westerville. The injured were Samuel P. Chesshir and Frank C. Lower, both of Columbus.

Alvis reported that Thomas ran from the hospital to the kitchen where he grabbed a butcher knife.

Eight of his neighbors brought their tractors shortly after breakfast. By noon they had nearly completed the planting job.

THIRSTY WEST

WATER is a problem in much of the west and southwest. A 25-year controversy between Arizona and California is gathering new momentum over rights to the waters of the Colorado River. Arizona wants to tap this stream and its tributaries for erection of a 700 million dollar irrigation project. California says such a development will use more than Arizona's share of the river water, and weaken California's extensive dam, canal and hydro-electric construction, including the Hoover and Parker dams, all of which employ the flow of the Colorado.

Five neighboring states and Mexico, through the Colorado River Compact of 1922, are using proportionate shares of water from this river. California says there isn't enough water for the added diversification desired in Arizona's new project. California wants the matter taken to the Supreme Court to be settled once for all.

The intensity of the disagreement is a measure of the importance of water to the vast sunshine lands of the southwest. They have their knotty problems as well as other areas. Sunshine and warmth are not everything. Water must be piped into them somehow, from somewhere.

WALLACE PROGRESS

Wallace is changing his position. At first he was opposed merely to President Truman and the latter's espousal of the Marshall Plan and universal military training. His price for return to the Democratic party was repeatedly announced as repudiation of all three.

Now he says that his candidacy does not depend on anything the Philadelphia platform may say. Nor does it matter whether the candidate be a general or a Supreme Court justice. This is a slap at Associate Justice William O. Douglas, who was talked of for the vice-presidency in 1944 and has sometimes been mentioned as a nominee who would be acceptable to both Truman and Wallace.

Wallace evidently enjoys campaigning, and his enthusiastic meetings have encouraged him. Sooner or later he will succumb to the notion that eventually he'll be all presidential candidates, the conviction that he will be elected.

He might be, but as yet there are no signs of that. What is apparently sure is that he will not leave the race.

Television seems to be a realization of the long-sought achievement where a seeker might see around three corners and through a thin stone wall.

PERHAPS when some of the radio alarmists shout about the nearness of war with Russia, they do it simply to take our minds off high prices.

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:
Up to a grand morning of sunshine and rising temperature. Growing weather. Just so it doesn't advance fruit to the point where the inevitable late frosts will swing a killer ax. Soon cranked the wagon and headed for town, once again drinking in the glory of this fine country of ours. One needs to travel little more than a bit to be appreciative of our farms and farmers.

Spent Sunday afternoon up Lima way calling on L. S. Galvin, my former boss when I worked on The Lima News. He confined to his home for a long time, entirely too long a time for the good of his paper and of the community it serves. Still a great publication, modern to the minute and doing plenty of business, but the Roy Galvin touch, that for so many years was evident on every page of his paper, is missing. Strange how much of the personality of a great newspaperman his paper carries. And Roy Galvin is a great newspaperman. No longer is he my boss, has not been for 13 years since I left Lima to come to Circleville, but to me he will remain the "Boss" so long as either of us lives. In this business more than 30 years, with Roy Galvin eight years, and in those eight years I learned more about newspaper than in all the other 22. I have been associated with many of the greats of the profession, have worked with them, seen their performances, but my greatest pride and pleasure grows out of association with the "Boss."

Did you ever feel that way about anyone? It is truly heart warming.

Heard this on the street: "Once upon a time the Indians ran this country. There were no taxes. The women did all the work." Can anyone imagine on a system like that?

There hobbies Irv Leist. Carried concrete blocks to speed construction of a new garage. Encountered a "crick" that has convinced him of the wisdom of leaving specialties to the specialists.

These Days

Goebel wrote in his diary:

"This war was started because of a mid-ge state; but no (sic), when it has reached the decisive culminating point, such states allegedly have no right to exist any more. All fundamental conception of how nations are to live together seem upside down in this wild spiritual and political confusion. Therein lies our great chance."

The midget nation to which the Nazi chieftain referred was Poland, a country of 150,470 square miles, with 34,770,000 human beings. Suppose it were smaller; suppose the population were smaller—do those people not have an inalienable right to a government of their own choosing? The United States failed to answer that question affirmatively at Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam. And so Poland has gone out of existence, having become a mere province of Soviet Russia.

The principal loser in that error of judgment is not Poland; it is the United States. When the President of the United States is worried by the prospect of war, he faces the specter of unforgivable errors made by his predecessor, his advisers and associates who were guided neither by moral principles nor by international law but by the whims and practicalities that came to them. Therefore, we lost a war and may be forced by circumstances to do it over again.

Henry L. Stimson, in his memoirs, says of this:

"Much of the policy of the United States toward Russia, from Teheran to Potsdam, was dominated by the eagerness of the Americans to secure a firm Russian commitment to enter the Pacific war. And at Potsdam there were Americans who thought still in terms of securing Russia's help in the Pacific war. Stimson . . . was disturbed to find that a part of the Russian price was a Soviet lease of Port Arthur and Soviet participation with the Chinese in the control of the Manchurian railways.

This agreement was accompanied by a Russian promise to leave the Chinese in full control of Manchuria, but in the light of the Polish situation Russian promises of this character no longer seemed reliable."

In a word, those in charge of our war in the Far East were not capable of appraising our capacity to fight or win. They permitted this country to be blackmailed by an enemy, disguised as an ally, who made such demands as we had rejected from the day of the John Hay Open Door Policy in 1899 to the Hull ultimatum of Nov. 26, 1941. We went to war with Japan over Manchuria, but at Yalta, Roosevelt agreed to authorize Russia to exercise the very rights in Manchuria which had brought on Pearl Harbor.

Therefore, we lost the Far Eastern War, for whereas we pushed the Japanese out of Manchuria, we pushed the Russians into it. They were engaged in the Far Eastern War for six days; yet out of it they received Manchuria, half of Korea, membership in the Council which pretends to control General MacArthur, and the stores of the Kuantung Army, the best equipped of the Japanese military forces, which they have presented to the Chinese Communists for the purpose of conquering the whole of China.

In a word, the American people may only pay taxes for war; they may only die for their country—but under no circumstances are they to know the truth.

CANADA is said to be "tightening imports," and Americans hope that doesn't mean cracking down on Summer visitors.

Was there ever a normal lad that didn't envy birds?

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

A GREAT REVEALER

DUPLICATE is the great revealer of bridge. That form of the game humbles a player who has blundered through to what he considers a good result, if the scores at other tables show he did much worse than somebody else. The real student, when he finds his work was surpassed by a rival, always wants to know just how the other fellow went about it. Did he get a gift from the opponents through a mistake they made? Was he just plain lucky? Or did he merely do a better job, and, if so, in what way? Usually after the game the other fellow is flattered by your question and will answer gladly.

Then he saw the score slip and noted that another South had made an unbridled slam on a 3-No Trumps contract. Queried, the latter related how he played it. He won the heart 3 lead with the A, led the spade 2 to the Q, returned with the heart Q and led the spade 4. West playing the A. The diamond Q went to the K, the heart K and J won, then the spade Q. Now the spade 10 squeezed West, who had the diamond 10 and club Q. Dummy also had the diamond 8-5 and club A-6, and South the diamond A-9 and club K-2. The diamond 9 was thrown, West was now wrecked, regardless of whether he picked a club or a diamond. Just figure out how it worked. It was pretty.

Mrs. Charles Walters Elected President Of Child Study Club

Mrs. Patrick And Mrs. Best Hostesses

Mrs. Charles Walters was elected president of the Child Study Club when its members met Monday evening with Mrs. Dane Patrick in her home in Kingston.

Other officers assuming their respective appointed posts are Mrs. John R. Heiskell, vice-president; Mrs. Gladien Troutman, recording secretary; Mrs. Glenn Skinner, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Larry A. Best, treasurer.

Mrs. Best served as chairman of the nominating committee. Her assistants were Mrs. Margaret Herbert and Mrs. Charles Kirkpatrick.

Mrs. Fritz Severts, outgoing president, conducted the business session. She appointed Mrs. Joseph Rooney, Mrs. Sterling Poling, Mrs. Richard Funk, and Mrs. Ned Dresbach to make arrangements for a May dinner meeting.

Miss Margaret Rooney from Mansfield, formerly of Circleville, a Girl Scout executive, was guest speaker. Miss Rooney told the club members that "the growth of Girl Scout organizations is promoted by conditions—a child grows as he is properly fed, clothed and sheltered."

"Girl Scouting is a community welfare agency, whose aim is the development of each girl into a well-rounded individual and an intelligent, participating member of her own group, her community now and in the future."

"To assure harmony, the council must plan together for the year to guide the girls so that the responsibility is clearly defined. Girl Scout plans meet national standards and their work is coordinated. Pickaway County suffers annually in quantity and quality of crops harvested because of inadequate use of fertilizer.

J. A. Muster, county soil conservationist, said Tuesday farmers in many cases were using only about one-half the minimum amount of fertilizer required for healthy and abundant crops and for maintaining productive soil.

He pointed out that Pickaway County may assume a sufficient amount of rainfall due to prevailing climate in this area. The remaining factor governing a good harvest is the organic matter in the soil to speed action of fertilizer.

Annual applications of fertilizer average about 100 pounds per acre and often less which is about one-half the minimum amount that should be used unless much higher analysis mixtures are made and marketed, the conservationist pointed out.

MUSTER recommended for farmers still using the old three-year rotation of corn, small grain and one year of meadow to use 150 pounds for checked corn, 300 pounds of fertilizer for drilled corn and balance of the 600 pounds should be used on wheat-meadow seeding.

For modern four-year rotation of corn, small grain and two years of legume-grass meadow, 800 pounds of fertilizer per acre is suggested for use during the four years. Muster said that customarily 300 pounds are used with drilled corn and the balance on wheat-meadow seedings.

Many of the deficiencies of nutrition are now being charged against inadequate mineral content in both feeds and foods.

Nutritionists, conservationists and soil scientists are pointing to the fact that plants can only take from the soil what the soils have to offer. The soils, in turn, can deliver to the plants only what the grower gives to the soil in the way of mineral fertilizer.

Muster admitted the difficulty in obtaining sufficient amounts of fertilizer, but he said farmers should make as much use as possible of what there is until more and better grades of plant foods are made and offered to growers.

Estimated $15,000 Spent Here By Circus During Winter Stay

Officials of Pickaway County Agricultural Society estimated that during the five months the Mills Bros. Circus wintered at the local Fairgrounds, the organization spent about $15,000 in this area.

Rough estimates were topped by the $1,200 the circus spent for Fairgrounds buildings.

In addition, local officials pointed out that animal trainers and equipment men, who remained here during the off-season, spent large sums of money for additional gear, repair work, vast quantities of feed for their trained livestock as well as for their own personal keep.

One of the last expenditures made by Jack Mills, head of the circus, was a fund to clean up debris left Saturday night when the circus pulled stakes to head out on its nationwide tour.

TOM HARMAN, secretary of the society, emphasized that the circus "left enough money to take care of all cleaning-up expenses and for the minor damage caused to Fairgrounds barns."

One top expenditure was laid out Saturday evening when the circus sponsored a press party in Circleville's Memorial Hall.

At that time, the Rainbow Division auxiliary made its debut as a banquet caterer and fed full dinners to about 200 persons at about $2.50 per plate.

The two films traced the development of papermaking from its inception in China many years B.C. to the present day. One of the films showed initial efforts of the Chinese to make paper, traced its development from the Far East to the Middle East and then into Europe.

Many Farmers Using Only Half Enough Fertilizer, Claim

Soil Expert Offers Plan For Seeding

Program Promises Larger Crops

NEW BOOKS IN LIBRARY

Mystery Author Switches To New Type Of Fiction

Book readers probably will remember Mabel Seeley as the author of four popular mysteries—"Crying Sisters," "Whispering Cup," "Listening House," and "Chuckles Fingers."

ENID DENHAM, librarian at Circleville public library reports that Author Seeley has tried her skill on a new theme . . . the scrambling of a smalltown woman for wealth and position. Title of the book is "Woman of Property".

Frieda was girl of poor parents in a small mid-west town, employed as a clerk in a general store at the wage of $2 a week. This she had to hand over to her brutal father.

Her great determination to compensate for her bitter childhood and youth led Frieda into four marriages, all carefully engineered by her, and finally her attainment of wealth.

The theme is not new. It prevailed in "Kitty", "Gone With the Wind", "Bride of Glory", and others. But Mrs. Seeley's characterization, her skill in telling makes Frieda, if not a sympathetic heroine, at least a very compelling one. It is a deftly narrated tale with a surprise ending.

"IN THE BEGINNING" there was only a town on a river, and not a very notable town at that. Upon that town of Moscow certain forces acted, and around it outward events took shape, resulting in migration and colonization across the breadth of the Eurasian continent, and even bridging the sea to the New World. A historian of seventeenth century has wondered "what man ever thought or divined that Moscow would become a kingdom, or what man ever knew that Moscow would be accounted an empire?"

This is part of the foreword of Harold Lamb's new book "March of Muscovy—Ivan the Terrible and the growth of the Russian Empire 1400-1648". It is another new book in the local library.

In these days when the great bear that is Russia is attempting to extend over vast territories, the question is asked: "What is the power or strength behind this movement?"
